How you can help

What we do

We offer a range of intensive, highly-effective, early-intervention support services to the most vulnerable children in Otago and their families.

Our social workers are all tertiary trained and registered.

Our primary focus is to work intensively alongside families in their homes, supporting them to identify the real underlining causes and implications of vulnerability, abuse, family violence and neglect while supporting and strengthening the skills of parents to achieve long-term meaningful change.

We provide child and family support services that are level one accredited through the Ministry of Social Development. This enables us to intervene in the most serious circumstances of abuse, neglect and family violence.

We are also able to provide caregiving and respite care services for children if needed.
